

How to use these token cutouts

These pages contain the text Green Eggs and Ham by Dr Seuss (940 tokens, entropy 1.75 bits/token, perplexity 3.4). Each cutout is a token preceded by its prefix—the token that came immediately before it in the original text.

Anatomy of a cutout

Every distinct token has its own colour. Prefix words appear inside a coloured box (the prefix word’s own colour as the background, with white text); the free-standing token appears in plain coloured text. The same word always wears the same colour, whether you see it inside a box or as a token. Two unrelated tokens can occasionally share a colour, so always verify the word itself matches—not just the colour.

Setup

Cut out the tokens along the dotted lines and spread them out face-up on the table, with no overlap if possible. This is the “training” step: every prefix-token combination from the original text is now a physical cutout sitting on your table.

How to play: the matching game

To generate text, repeatedly find a cutout whose prefix matches the last token you’ve written, then write its token onto your page. The token you just wrote becomes part of the prefix you’ll match against next—that’s the chain.

Worked example

Step 1. Pick any cutout to begin—say this one:

that Sam

Copy its prefix and its token onto your page. Your text so far:

that Sam

Step 2. Look at the last token you’ve written (in this case Sam) and find a cutout whose prefix matches it, like this one:

Sam I

Write its token onto your page. Your text now reads:

that Sam I

Step 3. Repeat. The last token you’ve now written is I—find another matching cutout:

I am

Add its token. Your text now reads:

that Sam I am

Keep going—write as much or as little as you like.

Tips

- Use colour as a fast filter. Scan by the rightmost prefix box’s colour first, then verify the actual word matches.
- Pick from many candidates by eye. The more cutouts share a given prefix, the more often your eye lands on one—that’s weighted sampling for free, and it’s why some words follow others more often in your text.
- Put the cutout back after using it—removing it would change the model’s distribution next time round.
